Polish Immigration to Texas: A Brief History

Just as Friedrich Ernst was the Father of German Immigration in Texas, so Father Leopold Moczygemba encouraged Polish peasants to immigrate to Texas in the early 1850's. Most of these Poles came from Prussian occupied Lower and Upper Silesia. According to Przygoda, "Geographically, the country (Silesia) was made up of villages scattered across a rolling surface of land interblended with a pattern of forests and fields of rye, potatoes, clover, and other crops." Once part of Poland, Silesia (Schlesien in German) had also been part of Bohemia and Austria besides Prussia. Poland itself had been under Austrian, Russian, and Prussian rules. During the period of 1795-1918, it had ceased to exist as an independent state altogether. Therefore, on various records, Poles are listed as Prussian, German, Austrian, or Russian.

The German minority dominated the majority Polish peasant population in the period prior to the emigration. The Poles were considered second-class citizens; they were limited in the amount of land they could own. This social discrimination also affected the use of the Polish language in schools and government. There was pressure on the church as well. The 1840's and 1850's had been a period of typhoid and cholera epidemics and floods. There were poverty, famine, high taxes, inflation, and conscription to deal with. The Poles were ready to try for a better life giving them social, political, and religious freedom. The letters of Father Moczygemba to his family and friends in Gross-Strehlitz County in Opole Regency provided the incentive to seek this better life in Texas.

Immigration agents in the Regency of Opole represented shipping companies in North German ports. They arranged transportation for specific emigrants or parties of emigrants. Like the German emigrants, these Polish emigrants were of the peasant class, usually small landowners who had the financial means to travel with their families a third of the way around the world. They were members of an old social order known to and by all in the community.

Lindsay Baker in his book The First Polish Americans describes a typical voyage from the German ports.

Most of the time was spent in gloomy steerage quarters inside creaking vessels—a dark, windowless area of the ship. Eastbound the steerage was used for cargo such as cotton, tobacco, and rice. Westbound it was fitted with rough wooden floors, and platformlike bunks for transporting emigrants.

Crossings were monotonous. The sleeping quarters were crowded with two people to a wooden bunk. Each passenger could bring a mattress, pillow, and blanket for his bed. The unfortunate suffered from seasickness and other illnesses. Some died; the corpses were wrapped in canvas, weighted, and dropped overboard.

The shipping company carried supplies for a voyage of thirteen weeks. Salted pork, salted beef, rice, potatoes, butter, barley, peas, beans, sauerkraut, and dried plums composed communal meals. Emigrants could bring supplemental food.

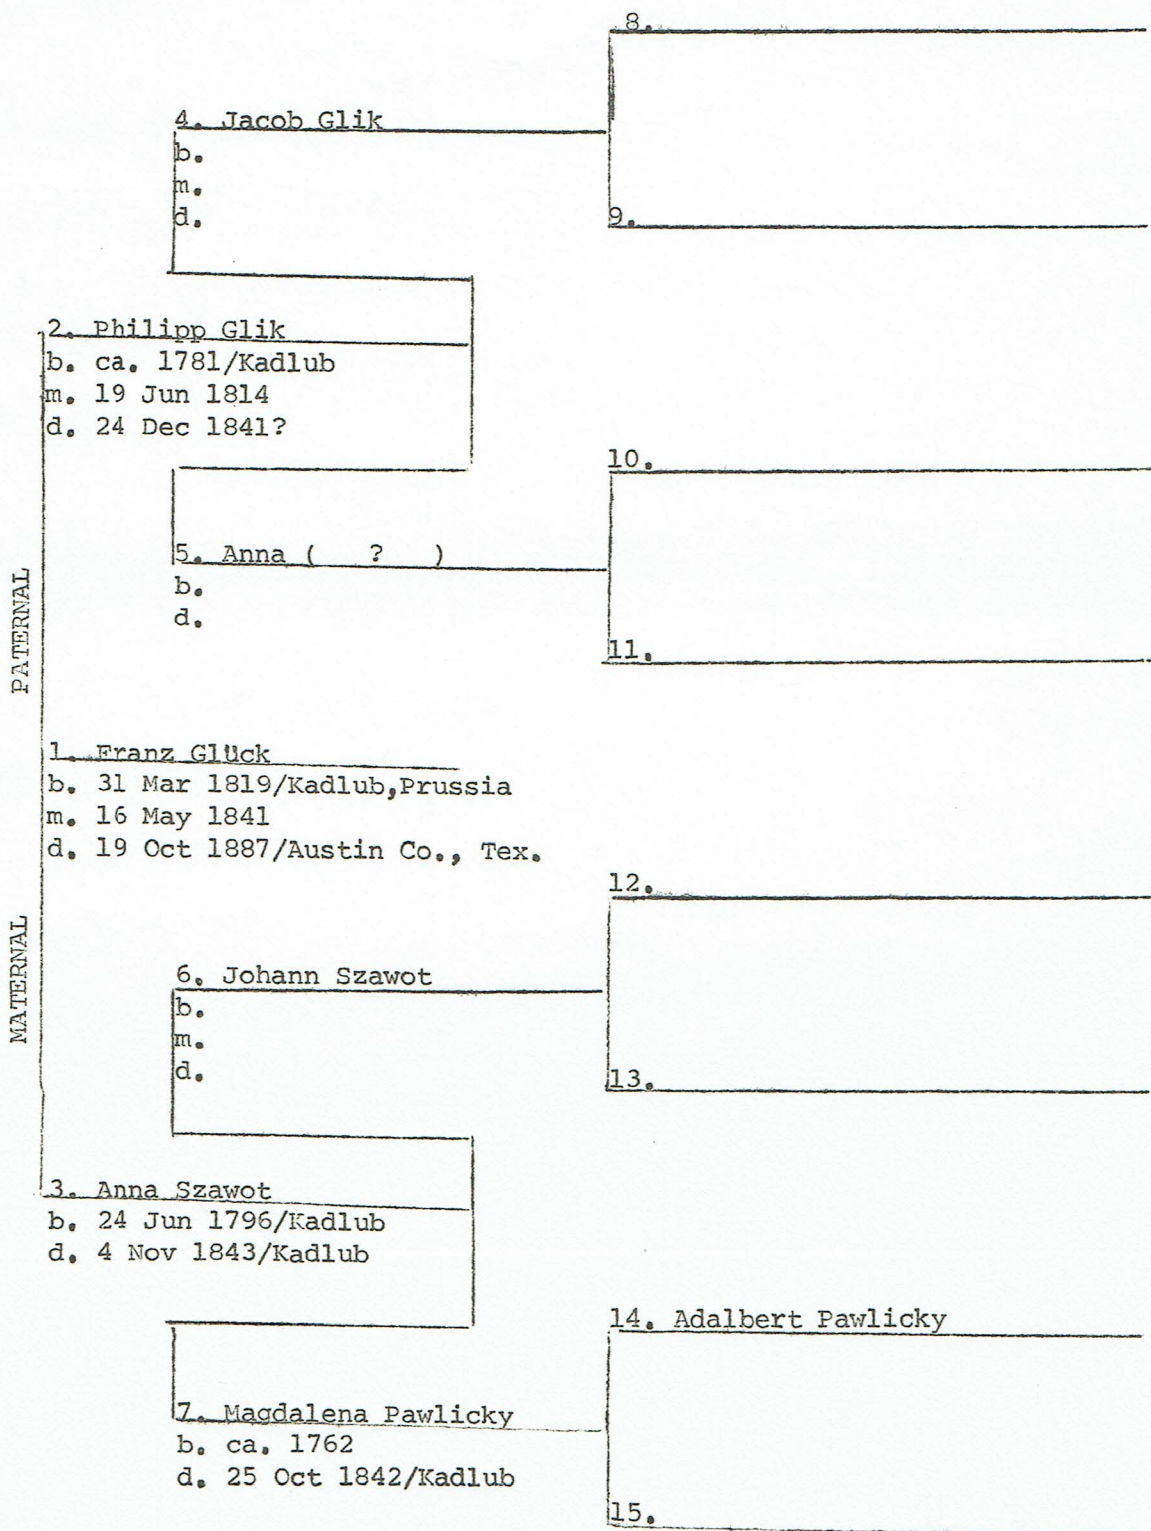

Each traveler had the right to twenty cubic feet of baggage and space for one trunk stored in the hold of the ship. They were allowed some hand baggage for valuables. There was no smoking or gunpowder. Once they reached the coast, the immigrants traveled on foot or hired Mexican ox carts.

Some of the Poles who came under the guidance of Rev. Moczygemba settled the town of Panna Maria; others settled in Bandera, San Antonio, Yorktown, Falls City, St. Hedwig, Czestochowa, Meyersville, Coletto, Inez, and St. Francesville. Because of the language barrier; the Slavic background, customs, and mores; and the Catholic religion, the Poles never achieved the Texas-wide union of the Germans and Czechs.

Polish immigration to Texas did not continue in the numbers that the German immigration did. For most purposes it stopped in 1857. Conditions had become better in Poland, and those immigrants in Texas during the drought of 1856-57 did not encourage others to join them. The story of the Polish struggle to establish a new social order in a more primitive Texas can be found in various books and articles including those of Lindsay Baker and Jacek Przygoda.

"THE FRANZ GLUCK FAMILY IN TEXAS

Evidently at some early period of time, the family known today as Glueck was very lucky. Thus, when surnames were given to or taken by the peasant people, this family took the name Glück which means "luck" or fortune. Besides being lucky, at least some of the family members must have also been strong, sturdy, and very determined in order to take five young children and travel across Germany (probably by rail) in the year 1853. For, in that year, the Franz Glück family traveled from the small village of Kadłub, Prussia, via Berlin to the port of Hamburg.

Frank Glueck, Sr. (in Anglicizing the u becomes ue), his wife, Ludwina Catherina Koy, and five children, Theodore 11, Alvina 9, Pauline 6, Frank 3, and Frances 3/4 sailed from Hamburg on the ship "Therese Henriette" on November 3, 1853. They arrived in Galveston on or about December 20, 1853; Franz's application for citizenship gives the date as December 26, 1853. On the ship's list the name is listed as Franz Glück; his birthplace is given as Kabul, Prussia. (Evidently this name was a mistake on the part of the person filling out the passenger list; the hometown was Kadłub according to passport papers and all other records). The word zimmerman (carpenter) appears by his name. From Galveston the family had to travel (by wagon?) to Austin County. Perhaps other family members or friends had settled in the area earlier. Franz Koy, Ludwina's brother, and his wife, Matilda Ratuschny, came to Cat Spring from Kadłub during the same period of time as the Gluecks. Matilda and three children were on the same ship. Since Franz Koy's name does not appear on the passenger list, he may have come earlier.

The passport papers issued to Frank and Ludwina on August 11, 1853, at Oppeln, Prussia, indicate the hometown as Kadłub, Gross Strehlitz, Prussia. The German name for this village is Stahrenheim. (Gross Strehlitz County in 1850, 350 square miles, 51,000 inhabitants) The immigration papers also give written descriptions of Franz and Ludwina. In the translation Franz is described as follows: age-34; height-5' 3 2/4"; hair-blond; forehead-covered; eyebrows-blond; eyes-blue; nose-thick; mouth-average; beard-blond; chin and face-round; color-healthy; stature-stocky; distinguishing marks-none. He is described as Einlieger (village inhabitant who rents) and Werkmeister (foreman). Ludwina (Ludovica Catharine) Gluck nee Koi is described in this way: age-29; height-5' 2"; hair-brown; forehead-low; eyebrows-brownish; eyes-blue; nose and mouth-average; chin and face-oval; face color-healthy; stature-medium; special identifying marks-none.

The 1860 census for Austin County shows the F. Gluck family living in the Industry Community P.O. area. The family consisted of F. Gluck 47, Mary 45, Theodore 18, A. 15, P. 12, Frank 10; F. 7; Mary 4. Real estate is valued at $200 and personal property is valued at $30. The family is found living in the Cat Spring community during the 1870 census. The record includes Frank Gluck 52, Ludwina 46, Franziska 17, Marie 14, Herman 9, Matilda 6, and Frank Renz 18. Real estate value is $700, and personal property value is $500. By 1880 the family consisted of Franz Glueck 61, Ludwina 56, Herman 20, and Matilda 17. They are listed in Cat Spring Precinct #4, and Frank is listed as farmer.

Franz Glück declared his intention to become a citizen on February 15, 1858; the right and privileges of citizenship were granted on October 30, 1865. The records of the Cat Spring Agricultural Society indicate that he was one of the earlier members of the organization which formed in 1856. The name Glueck appears in records of the Society prior to October 17, 1858. Two of his sons-in-law, Andreas Braden, Jr. and Thomas Stasny, as well as several members of the Koy family also belonged.

Frank Glueck died at Catspring, Austin County, on October 19, 1887; he is buried at Mentz on the Catholic Cemetery. The tombstone gives 1820 as his birth year; church records from Poland and a record in his own hand indicate the year to be 1819. His will dated May 28, 1885, names his wife Ludwina as Executrix. (He signed his name Frantz Gluck, Sr.) His estate consisted of the following:

110 acres of land (De Leon Survey) at $5.00 an acre	550
150 acres of timberland (Atkinson Survey)
	at $1.00 an acre 150
13 head of cattle at $4.00 a head	52
2 horses at $25.00 a head	50

Ludwina died on November 1, 1908. She is also buried at Mentz.

David Smalley who married Josephine Glueck, daughter of Frank Glueck, Jr. compiled a history of the Glueck family in 1953. The following paragraph is taken from that history.

They (Franz Glueck family) settled and farmed in Austin County, about one half mile north of what is now the site of the old town of Cat Spring, Texas. Shortly after they came they were instrumental in starting the first Catholic Church in their community, by holding services in their home. The church building was later erected at Mentz Settlement, near Alleyton, Texas.

Baptism, marriage, and death records for both the Glücks and Koys (of whom there were very many) are in the village of Rozmierz, Opole, Poland. Both families were from Kadzub which does not have a Catholic Church. These records have been microfilmed by the Mormon Church. Baptism records for Theodore and Albina are in the church at Centawa. Stubendorf has the baptism records for Pauline and Franz. (according to the passport record) Spelling varied for both names on the records as some are in Latin, and some, in German. (Glück, Glik, Glick)

As mentioned in the history of Polish immigration, most immigrants came to Texas in 1854-1855. The Gluecks and Koys were among immigrants who came a year earlier and settled in areas other than those settled by the groups which came with Father Moczygemba. Their reasons for leaving Poland were probably much the same as those who came later, but they were evidently more self directed.

CAT SPRING

Cat Spring is located in Austin County, a few miles southeast of the county seat of Bellville. Near the original settlement is a large spring. Tradition has it that someone killed a wildcat nearby. The community was first called Wildcat Spring, later changed to Cat Spring (Katzenquelle).

The settlement was founded by Germans who were encouraged to come to Texas by the letters of Friedrich Ernst. Among the earliest settlers were the Kleberg and von Roeder families. The earliest of these family members arrived 1832-1834. At that time Austin County had about 1000 people.

By 1880 the community had a gin, saw mill, grist mill, a planing mill, hotel, saddle shop, shoe shop, school, and church. The railroad came through the area in 1895; the town moved to its present location. Nothing of the original Cat Spring is intact although some foundations remain.

Many of the settlers were well-educated men who knew little about agriculture. In 1856 they formed the Cat Spring Agricultural Society in order to share the knowledge they had. Until 1941 the minutes of the society were written in German. The organization celebrated its centennial in 1956. (Cat Spring Story)

TWINS

Besides the six sets of twins identified in the outline of descendants, at least three sets of twins were born to Glücks and Koys in Prussia. These birth records are among those in Rozmierz, Poland, vital records which have been microfilmed by the Mormon church.

Twins Josepha and Francisca were born 10 March 1824 to Joseph Mania and Eva Glik. Mathio Frantz and Maria Koy were parents of twins Joannis and Joanna on 8 February 1829. Another set of twins was born after 23 November 1834 to Adalberti Glik and Rosalie Kopr.

FAMILY NAMES

The earliest generations of descendants of Ludwina and Franz repeated the names of the eight children as well as Ludwina and Franz. In the later generations, however, except for Frank and Mary, the names appear seldom if ever. A very rough count finds the following: Theodore, 3; Alvina, 3; Paulina, 3; Frank, 19; Ludwina, 1; Frances(cis), 11; Mary or Marie, 34; Herman, 2; and Matilda, 2.
